FAQs

Housing assignments at The Domino's Village

Will every patient get the chance to stay at The Domino's Village?

We regret that not everybody can stay at Dominos Village. We'll continue to make housing assignments based on length of stay, patient considerations, availability, and family needs. Patient considerations include how much the patient's immunity is expected to be suppressed by chemotherapy or other medications, along with age and diagnosis. Housing assignments will also be affected by campus construction.

- Which families get to move into The Domino's Village?

The Domino's Village will house both short-term and long-term patients. Patients who come to St. Jude for appointments after The Domino's Village opens may be assigned there. If a patient is already in a housing facility, St. Jude does not plan to move them.

- How do you assign patients and families to a particular housing unit?

We look at each case to figure out the best placement based on the patient's treatment plan and length of stay.

- How many people can stay in each unit?

Up to 4 people can stay in the 1- and 2-bedroom units. (This can go up to 5 people if one of them is an infant up to 24-months old.) Occupancy in the 3-bedroom can go up to 7 if one of them is an infant up to 24-months old.

- The Domino's Village has 3-bedroom apartments. Can I bring more family members with me?

Up to 7 people can stay in the 3-bedroom units if one of them is younger than 24 months old.

- I am staying at Target House or Ronald McDonald House. Can I move to The Domino's Village?

Only in very limited cases will a family move from their current long-term housing location to The Domino's Village. When a patient moves from short-term housing into long-term housing, they will be assigned either to Target House or The Domino's Village depending on their expected length of stay and treatment plan.

- Will families still have to stay in local hotels?

Our goal is to have very few patients, if any, staying in hotels. To do this, we will begin to assign some short-term patients to Ronald McDonald House as well as Tri Delta Place and The Domino's Village.
